CARE OF SEED PATCH IS MOST IMPORTANT

N. R. RAESSLER GIVES FURTHER INSTRUCTIONS AS TO BREEDING BEST SEED CORN.

CUT OUT WEAK STALKS

Select a Special Patch in One Section of Field From Which to Harvest the Seed.

Noyes R. Raessler.

In the first corn article published by The Gazette, I spoke of a seed patch or breeding plot which is an effective method by which the yielding or producing powers of corn can be increased.

This patch of one acre or five acres should be isolated if possible, but if that is inconvenient it can be made part of the general field but should be planted in the southwest corner so that the prevailing winds of mid-summer will not carry so much pollen from the remainder of the field into the seed patch.

Now then, it can be cared for just the same as you would care for the rest of the field. It can be cultivated during the season when the rest of the field is being planted and possibly once or twice extra. Few of our farmers but who cultivate their corn at least four times over. Many of them as much as five times and occasionally we find a farmer who goes over it six times. The field that is cultivated properly six times over is generally found to be in a very good condition but every additional cultivation will pay good returns for the labor.

Now, when the corn begins to tassle it will be necessary to give the seed patch special attention. In the first place, everyone no doubt appreciates the fact that the tassels are the male element of the plant, and the silk, the female. Most everyone will also recall the fact that, whether or not the stalk of corn puts forth an ear, it is seldom if ever that it does not put forth a tassel. It is plainly evident that to have in your field a stalk of corn producing nothing but a tassel is not much in the way of profit. This plant just about pays for the fertility taken out of the soil and may be termed a "boarder." In order to realize a profit, the stalk must produce an ear and the larger the ear the greater the profit, provided the ear matures.

Now, if you stop to think, you will fully appreciate what damage has been done by permitting the pollen (or male element) from these weak stalks to light on the silks of strong vigorous ears, reproducing this barren effect, in the crop, that will follow from the use of such seed.

When you go out in the corn field and run across a large, fine ear, well matured naturally, you save it for seed, but seldom do you stop to think of the fact that many of the kernels produced on that ear were fertilized with pollen produced on weak stalks and barren stalks, causing that same tendency to appear year after year in your corn field.

Now, then, it can readily be seen what would be a good thing to do with such stalks when they appear in your seed patch.

As soon as the tassels begin to appear it is time to get a good sized butcher knife, sharpen it in good shape, and to stroll into the seed patch. Walk along each row, and whenever you come to a weak stalk to a barren stalk (one producing no ear) or even a sucker that might appear to light on the silks of the main stalk near the ground—just cut such stalks off right near the ground. Some might say, "why not just cut off the tassels, or pull the tassels off?" but when you stop to think that this good for nothing stalk is growing right beside some good, strong, vigorous stalk that is trying to produce a good ear, taking the nourishment that would otherwise go to produce an ear of corn, is there any good reason for just taking off the tassels and leaving this stalk grow?

Now, as you go along, you might come to a stalk that you might not be sure as to whether or not it is coming or not—just a little bit doubtful—looks as though there might be one coming, but you are not just sure. There is one thing you can do and that is to pull the tassels off. You can cut this weak stalk off and then you will know that you are taking no chances of permitting the pollen which will come from the tassels on that stalk to float about over this one or two acres piece of field, so fertilize the silks that will be produced on some other stalk that is trying to grow a strong, vigorous ear of corn for you. It comes time to pick your seed corn which will be in the latter part of September, you can go out in your seed patch and get the purest and best seed you have on the farm. You don't need to look over a forty-eight or one hundred-acre field of corn in search of good seed.

When you stop to think of the time saved in picking seed corn, by a little extra care and attention that might be necessary in caring for the seed patch if you take into account how much better seed corn you will have as a result of eliminating the barren stalks, you will always follow the seed patch method and grow more bushels of corn per acre.

LINK AND PIN

Chicago and Northwestern.

Realizing that the best possible way to stop the enormous number of deaths of young children that are killed each year trespassing on railroad property, Ralph C. Richards, chairman of the central safety committee of the Northwestern railroad, is planning to enlist in the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission that there have been twenty-five thousand young people killed in the last twenty years, enough to make a mile post for every mile of travel in a trip around the world, and that in that time there are many children without an arm or a leg lost trespassing on the railroad or on graves of boys who were killed slipping cars. When it is considered that fourteen children were killed and four-fifths of them lived in the vicinity of the accident it is easily to be seen that a strenuous campaign against this evil would be of greatest benefit to the country.

On believing that the schools is the place to commence to teach that trespassing must be stopped the Northwestern railroad is inaugurating a system whereby they hope to have every teacher co-operate and instruct the pupils against the following things:

Walking on railroad tracks and bridges.

Loitering about railroad stations or cars.

Flipping on and off trains, cars or engines.

Crawling under, between, or over cars.

Crossing tracks without looking and listening to see whether a train is coming.

Crawling under gates when they are down.

It is the plan of Mr. Richards to send pamphlets to the school authorities containing illustrations of the appalling casualties that happen to trespassers on railroad twenty-eight times every day in the year thus interesting them in the work. Prof. H. C. Buell, superintendent of the Janesville schools expressed in favor of such a movement and stated that it would undoubtedly meet with a general response throughout the country as soon as the true facts are known.

While it is expected that if the schools take an interest in the work of convincing the children in the grades and the students in the upper schools that the railroad right of way is not a public playground the great amount of good will come from this source the Northwestern railroad is taking active steps in the courts, legislatures and even to congress to pass more stringent laws against trespassing and having the courts enforce what laws there are at the present time.

The United States is the only civilized country in the world that either has no laws penalizing trespassing or where we have such laws, neglect to enforce them. It would actually cost the state and municipalities less to enforce trespass law than it does to pick up and bury the dead, and care for the cripples, to say nothing of the saving of the human lives.

The work of the reduction of accidents has spread from a mere suggestion to a crusade, thus attracting world-wide notice. Japan having recently become interested in a similar plan and has succeeded in reducing the number of careless accidents which results in the death or injury of the railroad employees about fifty per cent. What the movement needs is the co-operation of the public especially the traveling people as they form over half of the number of people who are killed or injured.

Ralph C. Richards was one of the first to start the crusade to stop the swelling number of casualties and the new step to have the schools warn the children of the dangers of trespassing promises to be more effective than any other step that has been undertaken.

Still a Chance.

"What's the matter?" She has rejected me again. She says this is final. "Did she say how final?" inquired the older and more experienced man.—Washington Herald.

REPUBLICANS WILL SCHEME TO WIN BACK PROGRESSIVES AT MAY 24 CONFERENCE

When the executive committee of the Republican national committee meets in Washington on May 24, ways and means of winning back the four million voters who strayed away from the party last November will be considered. It is believed likely that the committee will consider it advisable for the party to adopt some of the principles of the Bull Moose organization.

Charles D. Hilles is still chairman of the Republican national committee. Two standpat members of that committee who it is expected will yield to the demands made by the progressive Republicans in a recent Chicago conference for a Republican national convention this fall are W. Murray Crane, former Massachusetts senator, and Senator Reed Smoot of Utah.

GRAFT TRAIL LEADS TOWARD TAMMANY; WHITMAN BARES ROTTEN POLICE SYSTEM

Rhineland Waldo (at the left) and District Attorney Whitman. District Attorney Charles S. Whitman of New York is very busy these days having bare the rottenest police system in America—that of New York city. The facts which he has brought to light since the Becker conviction prove that the police system of America's greatest city is honey-combed with graft and has been for many years. That Tammany has fattened on the underworld has long been a matter of general belief, but Whitman has taken it beyond question. The district attorney is being assisted in his efforts to run down the police grafters by Rhineland Waldo, police chief of New York city.

MOOSE LODGE WILL HAVE CRACK NINE

Committee Appointed to Organize Baseball Nine to Represent Local Lodge—Successful Outlook.

Janesville will soon have another baseball team to compete for the city championship as the local order of Moose decided at their meeting Thursday night that they had sufficient baseball talent among their members to organize a successful baseball team. A committee was appointed and material enough for a crack team was found by them and the team will soon be in action.

Neighboring cities in Wisconsin and Illinois where the Moose lodge is in organization have baseball teams. The Beloit lodge being ably represented by a nine. Plenty of material is at hand and with good management the team should develop into one that will make a strong bid for the city championship.

The first game will undoubtedly be staged at Yost's Park between the Janesville and Beloit lodge teams as the organizations of both cities are planning to hold a big picnic some time in June and the ball game will furnish the main feature of the celebration. The men that the committee has picked out as probable players are: Henkel, C. Kirchoff and King, p. Worthington, J. Ulmer, B. Burger, S. J. Malter, Blunk and Heffron fielders.

SERVICE ON INTERURBAN RAILWAY IS INTERRUPTED

Service on the interurban railway between this city and Beloit was interrupted for about two hours this morning as the result of the breaking of a feed wire near Town Line, about five miles north of Beloit. The car due here at 7:55 o'clock did not arrive until 9:40, and the one due out for Beloit at 10:15 o'clock left about an hour late. The freight car southward bound was derailed at the car barn on Eastern avenue until about ten o'clock. The later morning cars arrived and departed on schedule time.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

The most dangerous sport on the sport calendar, unless aviating is possible, is the motorcycle races on board tracks. In full swing, the new western league of motor teams and the eastern league as well are holding events, three weekly. The first night riding resulted in the death of one rider, Brownie Carls, champion of Australia, probably is the most prominent speeder connected with the game.

When Frank Chance's team left New York on the motor invasion it was predicted that Frank Chance in Chicago would be a poorly attended event indeed, on account of the showing of the club in the east. But now we note that ticket speculators sold tickets for the occasion for the small price of $7. There were plenty of buyers.

Glan, champion twice of the world, will attempt to break his record to wagon by trotting in better than two minutes at the opening day's races of the Grand Circuit at North Randall, O.

Wyck, the recruit pitcher sent to the fighting line last week by Connie Mack, is a graduate of Bucknell, nationally.

which institution Christy Mathewson came from.

Cyrus Falkenberg, of the Cleveland club, is making his comeback record better every day he enters the box. His record now is seven consecutive wins—one less than Walter Johnson, the American league's leader.

That Chinese university team from Hawaii sizes up as a strong diamond aggregation. It has played all the noted college teams since its coming to this country and it has yet to lose a game. The Chinese only recently became acquainted with baseball.

Having made good in his first bout after a long lay-off brought on by a fiasco with Eddie McCorty, Mike Gibbons probably will have his name in the papers regularly from now on. Gibbons defeated Gus Christie in Boston this week. A few more victories and he will be as prominent as ever in the list of scale.

Connie Mack is authority for the statement that western teams are the ones to fear this year. St. Louis and Chicago are stronger clubs than previously and Cleveland is playing sensationally.

MATINEE PROGRAM IS BEING PLANNED FOR

Some Fast Events Scheduled For Decoration Day at the Park Association Track.

Plans for a matinee program on May 30th, Decoration Day, at the Park Association track are being seriously discussed and it is possible that Secretary Putnam and President Nichols of the association will be able to arrange for a series of interesting events for the public's entertainment. With over forty horses in training at the track at the present time there should be no lack of good material and some interesting heats could be easily arranged for. During the next few days a string of ten horses which have been quartered at the State Fair Park in Milwaukee for the past four years for their spring conditioning will be shipped to Jansville which is one of the biggest kind of an advertisement for the worth of the local track and surroundings conditions over those existing in Milwaukee.

HIGH SCHOOL NINE SHORT ON SLUGGERS

Improvement in Batting Ability is Imperative—Expect Return Game With St. John's.

Three hundred per cent sluggers are not very prevalent among the local high school baseball teams in spite of the fact that the locals have won two games and lost one. Elder, the local catcher, is hitting the ball at a merry clip. His average is now .417, which is a good average. He has made five swings out of twelve times at bat. J. Ryan follows him with an average of .333. He has had considerable difficulty in meeting the curves this year, but if he once gets his eye, it will be on many a pitcher as Ryan is a heavy hitter.

The remainder of the team is poor in the hitting line. Their averages are as follows: H. Ryan, .250; J. Stewart, .167; Kennedy, .167; Hemming, .154; Connell, .117; L. Stewart, .113; Falter, .000; Kuhlman, .000; Stickney, .000; Dalton, .000.

Arrangements are now well under way to have the St. John's nine play here on a return game. The locals are confident that they can defeat again, if they were to meet again, and Connell wants another chance at them. It is still possible that Milton college may also play the locals. It is understood that the college nine are anxious to play Jansville after the locals almost defeated St. John's, and if a game were arranged it would be a close one.

RECALL BY VIOLENCE.

Janesville is interested in the recall proposition, but stands for a peaceful recall, if any. The Wall Street Journal discusses the problem of recall by violence as follows:

"At Paterson, New Jersey, a man was indicted on the charge of inciting the striking silk workers to assault and riot. Upon trial before a jury he was convicted. At a meeting held after the verdict was announced, and attended by ten thousand strikers, a speaker said: 'This meeting is called as a protest against the action of the jury. . . . We are going to make this protest more substantial in a few days, for we'll tie up every trolley line and automobile garage in this city for two nights, and plunge the city in darkness.'

"As a matter of fact, this man, who is not a citizen of Paterson, went to the scene of trouble, not as a peace-maker, but to fan the flame. But it matters not who he is, or what he is. It matters not whether he is guilty or innocent of the crime for which he was indicted. The fact remains that he was tried in open court before a jury of his peers, and that jury rendered a verdict against him. If the party to a trial deems himself aggrieved, the law provides an orderly course for him to obtain justice by appeal to a higher court."

"When our forefathers formulated our system of government they declared the purpose was, among other things, 'to insure domestic tranquility. . . . promote the general welfare.' They retained the jury system, which is one of the bulwarks of Anglo-Saxon liberty. The jury stands between the citizen and the state, and protects the weakest. A fair trial is guaranteed to every man charged with a crime. He is presumed innocent until proven guilty. Elaborate safeguards are thrown around him. Courts and juries cannot be infallible, but it is not intended that any innocent man shall suffer a conviction."

"With every possible provision made for the protection of the citizen, it is not unreasonable that the state demands that every individual should bow to the majesty of the law. It is and it must be supreme. Its mandates must be obeyed, and its judgments carried out. Our whole structure of society is built upon law and order. Those who would live here and accept the benefits of that form of society must walk by the path it has marked out. Obedience to the law is a fundamental duty. A verdict of a jury or decision of a court is never to be recalled by violence. The orderly way provided by the law is the only way that will be tolerated."

"Domestic tranquility is not insured by throwing a city into darkness, and giving full play to the criminal element to rob, loot and murder. The general welfare is not promoted by the destruction of property, or by preventing peaceful citizens from pursuing their lawful vocations. The state can never permit such methods. If our institutions are to stand, it will never do to permit a judgment to be reversed by the torch and the bomb."

THE STATE FAIR.

The legislative investigating committee which will report on the possible change of the location of the state fair from its present site in West Allis, near Milwaukee, to some other part of the state, is at present in Milwaukee, and is being held in the city and fed to their content. Milwaukee states that all the other cities and they will be willing to abide by the result. That is all any other city in the state seeking the location of the fair asks for—a fair and impartial decision. From the calibre of the men constituting the legislative committee such a decision is certain. Janesville has made its formal bid for the location and if it is to be moved from Milwaukee, stands an excellent chance of being chosen. Not only that but the committee has promised to give Janesville boosters another chance to present their claims before them, previous to their making up their report to the legislature. The railroad facilities, the previous history of Janesville for caring for large crowds of visitors, the excellence of the tract of land offered as a site and the fact that this city is the center of the richest agricultural country in the middle west, the "garden spot" as it were, will all have their influences in bringing about the final decision. Milwaukee has never supported the fair from the attendance point of view, while in days of yore every time the state fair has been held in Janesville, it has made money. It takes money to run a big institution like a state fair and this money is obtained by the admission fees. If the little village of Elkhorn can entertain thirty to forty or fifty thousand people a day at their fair what can Janesville do with excellent railroad facilities and much larger grounds and far better accommodations. It is an economic problem that the legislative committee have to solve and their decision will be passed on by the legislature itself. The time for prompt action in presenting Janesville's claims is at hand and the spirit of boosting these claims, which pervades the atmosphere, means a united action in this direction.

THE GROCERS' HOLIDAY.

It is most commendable on the part of the grocers of the city to seek to give their employees a half holiday during the summer months. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is an old saw and a wise one too. In selecting Wednesday afternoon the grocers have chosen a day which will least inconvenience the average household and at the same time give their employees a genuine holiday. Saturday, for obvious reasons, would be impossible and so would the other days of the week, but Wednesday seems to fill the bill exactly and it is to be hoped it will be sunny and fine every Wednesday this coming summer.

CALIFORNIA INSISTENT.

Governor Hiram Johnson has signed the California alien law and it becomes effective in ninety days. The Independent says:

"The mission of Secretary Bryan, backed by the message from President Wilson, has failed. California softens its language, but does not soften the substance of her discrimination against the Japanese. The final draft for the law stands; to the effect that Japanese and Chinese cannot acquire and own land, and can lease land for only three years. There is no such prohibition against citizens of any other nation only against these Asiatics."

Here is the sum and substance of the new law in a nutshell. California has stood on its old doctrines of state rights and thus far has won out. What the result will be is hard to say at present, but it is certain to bring about complications sooner or later that will affect the whole country. Meanwhile Wilson's and Bryan's diplomacy have stood for naught.

Chiggers.

News items from the tall grass inform us that the annual war against chiggers is on in earnest in all rural districts. The chigger is not any part of an automobile, as the name implies, but is a small animal or bug, as the case may be, which has sharp teeth and an appetite like a colored minister.

Chiggers cut quite aigger at Sunday school picnics. The young man and his best girl sit down on the grass under a tree to consume the beans and deviled eggs.

When the chigger comes along, fastens himself to some unobscured portion of the young man's anatomy somewhere between the ankle and the collar bone and proceeds to chigger. The young man mutters something that doesn't sound well at a Sunday school picnic and grabbing himself firmly by the affected territory, starts for the woods with a cry of anguish, there to hunt out a tree, which has rough bark and to rub himself up and down thereon until the chigger is reduced to such a state of mental and physical demoralization that he is unable longer to cling. One chigger can cling over every square inch of a man's frame in less time than it takes the Standard Oil Company to declare a dividend that has been estimated at one second and a half, eastern and standard time. Once the chigger is caught it is a neasy matter to kill him. One good way is to hit him in the head with an ax, but a more humane way is to tickle him under the chin until he opens his mouth. Then fill his mouth with snuff and let him sneeze himself to death. The chigger is three sizes smaller than a spinal meningitis microbe and comes in different shades, all of them from chocolate brown to a patent leather polish.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

READING HISTORY.

Did you ever hear the complaint that history is dry? I have. But I never heard it that I did not wonder at the sort of dry mind that could transfer its ardity to the most delightful and human study in the world.

To him who sees the golden thread of the divine running through it history is a sort of holy writ.

The annals of the last nineteen hundred years are in a way a continuation of our Christian Bible, the unfoldment of the plans there formulated.

All drama, fiction and poetry are but history revealed through seeing eyes. Not infrequently it is revealed in distorted form. If read understandingly the real record is more beautiful than these fancied dramas from it, for it is nearer the truth and therefore has deeper depths than even the novelist or poet has seen.

History is romance, religion, politics, poetry, heroism, tragedy and drama all rolled into one.

Did you never read it and identify yourself with its characters, thus living over the old scenes? If not you have failed to find the soul.

History is the gigantic drama of the ages, with some unseen hand shifting the scenes.

Did you never imagine the delightful pastoral scenes and the simple folk that lived when the world was young—the folk that talked of fairies and of wonders, who saw God in the clouds and the rising and setting suns, who heard his voice in the thunders, who believed the old tales, with their miracles and divinites?

Did you never picture yourself as a knight or a lady fair of yore? Did you never gain a thrill and a higher ideal from the battles for liberty and the martyrdoms of the far days when the world was young?

History reveals us to ourselves because it reveals man.

It enlarges us because it gives us a glimpse into the lives of large souled men and women.

As we read it we are the kings, the heroes, the deliverers, the liberators. We live over the great deeds of the past.

History reveals to us our own age, shows us the meaning of the struggles through which we are passing, warns us of the pitfalls, holds out to us a hope of better things.

Study of the progress of the past gives us faith in the future.

Read history, but read it between the lines. Read it with understanding, insight and quick sympathy, and read it to discern the divine hand behind it that shapes it ever to better ways and nobler ends.

ELLSKWATAWA.

A townful of Shawnee Indians, clad in weirdly fantastic mourning, howled the death-dirge about a great wigwam one day in 1825. In the wigwam lay a hideous, one-eyed man; whose name had long been known and hated by every white settler in the west. He was Ellskwatawa, the "Prophet," brother of the famous Tecumseh and deadly foe to the United States government.

A few days before this scene of noisy mourning, the fifty-year-old prophet had been in the act of lighting his pipe when he sank to the ground, lifeless. His followers had been horror-struck. For they had deemed him immortal. His death meant the loss of their wisest, most powerful leader. They laid the body in state upon a pile of furs in the wigwam and began the death dance. When the dancing and feasting were ended the tribe marched in sad procession to the prophet's bier to carry him to his grave. As they neared the pile of furs the silent figure upon it suddenly sat up.

A Weird "Miracle."

"I have been in Paradise for three days," calmly remarked the supposedly dead prophet, as his frightened tribe-folk shrunk back in horror. "I have talked face to face with the Great Spirit and have brought you a message from him. Call the nation together that I may impart the tidings to all."

When the awed "nation" had assembled the prophet proceeded to deliver his "message," which included a command that the Shawnees cease from lying, stealing and drunkenness, and which in various points strengthened the prophet's authority over them. This was but one of many similar tricks by which the one-eyed genius held his people's allegiance and roused them to a frenzy of loyalty toward himself.

The prophet led a strange, adventurous life, many of whose incidents can scarcely be explained by natural causes. As brother of the mighty Tecumseh, he won war fame and wealth. He helped Tecumseh by over-awing the Indians with "miracles." Between them the brothers swayed nearly all the western tribes. In 1805 the prophet secured a large tract of land where the Tippecanoe and Wabash rivers join, and he rallied to his standard more than a thousand braves of different neighboring tribes. To his followers he was more than a mere leader. He was also their "medicine man" and supernatural master. Yet, despite all this, he governed so badly that soon all but 300 of his men deserted. Nothing but Tecumseh's aid prevented the remainder of the band from scattering.

But even Tecumseh could not save his brother's land. For in 1809 the government, through Gen. W. H. Harrison, bought from the Indians a huge tract of territory that included all the prophet's domains. Tecumseh sought in vain to combat this purchase. Failing, the two brothers set to work combining all the western tribes into a league to destroy the white men. Tecumseh did most of the brain work in the scheme, but the prophet's supernatural claims, forecasts and miracles also proved very useful. General Harrison took prompt steps to put down the conspiracy.

The climax was reached at the battle of Tippecanoe, in November, 1811. Tecumseh had gone southward to enlist new tribes for the league. In his absence the prophet was keeping the local Indians in a fever heat of warlike fury. Harrison, with 800 soldiers (mostly militia) marched to Terre Haute and thence sent a declaration to the prophet. The messengers were insulted and driven back. Then Harrison advanced upon the prophet's town, camping for the night a short distance from it.

The Battle of Tippecanoe.

The prophet ordered his men to make a midnight attack. But Harrison was ready for them. All night the battle raged. The prophet himself did not fight. He sat in safety on a distant hilltop, weaving "magic" spells and chanting war-hymns. At daybreak the Indians fled in wild confusion. Sixty white men and forty savages were found slain upon the field. Harrison pressed on to the prophet's town, found it deserted and burned it to the ground. The prophet had fled in safety, but his defeat had forever wrecked the combination of tribes he and Tecumseh had planned against the government.

The prophet fought for the English against our country in the war of 1812, and for his services received a pension from the British government. On this he lived comfortably in Canada until 1826, surrounded by a band of his admiring tribesmen. Then he came back to the United States and settled to the west of the Mississippi. The date and manner of his death are shrouded in mystery. It is thought by some that he "vanished" in order to keep up his reputation for supernatural power.

Teach Concentration.

The greatest thing that parents can do for their children is to teach them concentration of the mind as soon as their intelligence begins to bud—and that is very early. The mind of a child generally takes its bent long before the school days begin. The proper education of children begins from the cradle, and if it were pursued as it ought to be the mental force of mankind might be quadrupled in a single generation.

LOCAL BOOSTER CLUB HAS FILED ARTICLES

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND CLUB NOW ORGANIZED UNDER WISCONSIN STATUTES.

CALL ANNUAL MEETING

Election of Officers and Other Business Will Be Transacted at Meeting June 2nd at City Hall.

Articles of incorporation for the Twenty-Five Thousand club of this city have been filed at the office of the secretary of state. The signers are the ten directors which were named at the last meeting of the club at the city hall for the purpose of perfecting the organization. They are Frank P. Croak, M. P. Richardson, J. W. Van Buren, E. R. Winslow, H. Bliss, H. McNamara, J. A. Denning and William Hall. A call has been made for the first annual meeting of the newly organized society which will be held at the assembly room at the city hall on the evening of June 2nd. At this time officers will be elected and other business transacted. Officers named by the directors at the meeting Friday were only temporary.

Following is a copy of the eleven articles of organization:

Article First: The undersigned have associated, and do hereby associate themselves together for the purpose of forming a corporation under the laws of the Wisconsin Statutes of 1911, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, the business and purpose of which corporation shall be to promote the growth, prosperity and general welfare of the city of Janesville and harmony and unity among the citizens of said city through a representative organization of all citizens of all classes, trades, professions, industries, enterprises and general well-being of said city, create a spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness among its citizens, and enter into such contracts and make such arrangements as may be necessary to accomplish the same. To accomplish the business and purpose above set forth it may acquire, hold, manage and convey, real or personal property, and do such other business and things as the directors may from time to time decide upon, which are mentioned in section 1771 of said statutes, which said business shall be carried on within the state of Wisconsin and especially within the county of Rock and city of Janesville in said state.

Article Second: The name of said corporation shall be "The Twenty-Five Thousand Club of Janesville, Wisconsin," and its location shall be in the city of Janesville, in the county of Rock, state of Wisconsin.

Article Third: The corporation shall have no stock and no dividends or pecuniary profits shall be declared to the members thereof.

Article Fourth: The general officers of said corporation shall be a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

Article Fifth: The Board of Directors shall consist of twelve members, who shall be classified into three classes, so that one-third shall hold their office for one year, one-third for two years and one-third for three years; in which case all directors elected subsequent to the first shall hold their office for the term for which they were elected or appointed to fill vacancies.

Article Sixth: The said corporation shall hold its first meeting for the election of officers on the 2nd day of June, 1913, at the Assembly Chamber in the City Hall in the city of Janesville, county of Rock, state of Wisconsin.

Article Seventh: The officers shall be elected by the Directors who shall be elected by the members of said corporation.

Article Eighth: The principal duties of the President shall be to provide at all meetings of the Board of Directors, and the regular and special meetings of the members, and to have a general supervision of the affairs of the corporation.

The principal duties of the Vice-President shall be to discharge the duties of the President in the event of the absence or disability, for any cause whatever, of the latter.

The principal duties of the Secretary shall be to keep all deeds, leases and conveyances executed by the corporation, affix the seal of the corporation thereto, and to such other papers as shall be required or directed to be kept, and to keep a record of the proceedings of the Board of Directors, and the proceedings of the members of said corporation at their regular and special meetings, also to safely and systematically keep all records, documents and correspondence belonging to the corporation in any wise pertaining to the business thereof.

The principal duties of the Treasurer shall be to keep and account for all moneys, credits and property, of any and every nature, of the corporation, which shall come into his hands, and keep an accurate account of all moneys received and disbursed, and render such accounts, statements and inventories of moneys received and disbursed, and of money and property on hand, and generally of all matters pertaining to this office as shall be required by the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors may provide for the appointment of such additional officers as they may deem for the best interests of the corporation.

Whenever the Board of Directors may so order the officers of Secretary and Treasurer may be held by the same person.

All of said officers and members of said corporation shall perform such additional or different duties as shall from time to time be imposed or required by the Board of Directors, or as may be prescribed from time to time by the laws.

Article Ninth: There shall also be an advisory board of nine members to be either elected by the members or appointed by the directors, as the corporation may in its by-laws. The advisory board shall meet and confer with the Board of Directors and furnish such assistance as may be required from time to time, and shall be subject to the call of the Board of Directors, or the president thereof and perform such other duties as may be provided by the by-laws.

Article Tenth: The corporation shall be composed of all persons who have signed the roll of membership at the time of the execution of these articles of organization and of all other persons who pay the annual dues of one dollar ($1.00) and sign the roll of membership, but only those persons who are members of the corporation and residents of the city of Janesville over eighteen years of age shall have the right to vote at any meeting of the corporation and become a member of said corporation until he has paid said annual dues of One Dollar, ($1.00). Members will be discharged or expelled for misconduct or neglect of duties and obligations.

tion prescribed by the By-laws of said corporation, also for non-payment of the dues of One Dollar ($1.00) during the month of May of each year.

Article Eleventh: These articles may be amended by resolution setting forth such a amendment, and amendments adopted at any meeting of the members by a vote of at least one-half of all the members of said corporation, entitled to vote.

TWELVE DOLLARS STOLEN FROM MERCANTILE AGENCY

Unknown Thief Entered Office in Hayes Block at Noon Yesterday—Took Cash From Drawer.

Twelve dollars in cash, consisting of a five dollar bill and assorted change was stolen from a weak drawer in the office of the Williams Mercantile Agency in the Hayes block at noon yesterday while Mr. Williams and his stenographer were out to dinner. The theft was not discovered until the middle of the afternoon, when the stenographer was about to take the money to the bank. The lock of the drawer had been forced. As the doors to the office were all locked and entrance through the windows opening on the air-shaft is impossible it is believed that the thief had a key that opened one of the doors. The police are investigating the matter.

POLICE TELEGRAPH SYSTEM CONSIDERED SOME MONTHS AGO

Probable That Appropriation For Installation Of One Will Be Included In Next Municipal Budget.

Appropriation for the installation of a police telegraph or telephone system would probably be made in the next municipal budget according to a statement made this morning by Mayor or James A. Fathers. When the Mayor was last in Chicago, some weeks ago, he visited the office of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, consulted with one of their representatives concerning the workings of the system and was given an approximate estimate of the cost of one for this city. Eight boxes, equipped with red flash lights and telephones, the central switchboard, wiring, and other essential equipment would cost from $1700 to $2000. This number, it is believed, would be sufficient to serve the patrolled portion of the city.

A system of flash lights controlled from the police station could be put in for very much less than when combined with telephone equipment, but would not be nearly as satisfactory. By turning on one or more of the flash lights the attention of a patrolman could be attracted, but he would have to call the station by the regular telephone. It is believed that the system at night and may cause serious delay. Beloit is provided with a flash light equipment.

Where police telegraph systems are in use the patrolman must "check in" at the boxes marking the terminals of their beat; at regular intervals, and the station has a complete and automatic record of their comings and goings. They are obliged to "check in" on time. Should an officer be wanted at the station or at any particular point the flash lamp would inform him that there was a call for him and by step-phones at the nearest police telegraph he would receive definite orders. The system makes prompt responses possible as the officer closest to the seat of trouble could be assigned. Madison and Rockford, the nearest cities with a complete police telegraph system.

With this installation would come the establishment of a day and night police service, with an officer at the station at all hours. This city would be very much better protected, the very presence of such a system serving to deter the more timid criminals from action.

JANESVILLE MOOSE WILL VISIT BELOIT

Local Lodge Will Confer With Beloit Members to Arrange For Joint Picnic and Baseball League.

Janesville Moose will make a trip to Beloit Thursday evening of this week. It is expected that from fifty to seventy-five members will be in the party accompanied by the Janesville Moose band.

The object of the excursion is to arrange with Beloit lodge for a big Moose picnic to be held later at Har-lem park; also to perfect a league of the Moose baseball teams in this section of the state.

Special interurban cars are to leave Myers Hotel corner at 7:30 o'clock.

LOCAL ATTORNEYS TO TAKE SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAYS

Lawyers' Offices Will Close at Twelve O'clock Saturdays Beginning This Week.

Janesville attorneys have agreed to close their offices at twelve o'clock on Saturdays beginning this week, and continuing throughout the summer until Sept. 13. This has been the practice in previous years and has met with general satisfaction as there is little legal business to be done Saturday afternoons. It is expected that all the lawyers in the city have agreed to the arrangement.

GREAT AUTO TRUCK READY FOR ACTION

Chemical Tank Filled and Body Filled With Hose—Will Be Given Severe Tests Before Acceptance.

Janesville's new Seagrave motor chemical and hose truck is ready to respond to fire alarms although it has not yet been officially accepted by the city. This morning the fifty gallon chemical tank was filled and 1,000 feet of fire hose stowed away in the body, although with closer packing fifty feet more can be accommodated. One of the valuable parts of the equipment is a hose laying out device consisting of two iron rollers one at the end of the box floor, and the other underneath the rear platform. This makes it possible for the machine to run past the fire to the nearest hydrant, attach the hose and reel it out while backing up. This saves the time necessary to turn around such a large machine.

Chief Klein this morning sent word to the Seagrave company that the truck had arrived and that the city was ready for a demonstration. This will be a severe one as the city wants to be assured that the truck is equal to all demands that may be made upon it in actual service. It is provided with a draw-bar so that it can pull the fire engine if necessary. This test will undoubtedly be a part of the test. Yesterday afternoon the machine climbed Milwaukee street hill on high gear and Charles Schultz, who was at the wheel part of the time, is confident that it can climb Court street hill on high.

The chains for the rear wheels weigh about forty pounds or more, the links being about a third of an inch in thickness. They are intended for use in winter or in heavy mud.

MENINGITIS CLAIMS A YOUTHFUL VICTIM

Mary Louise Kneff, Fourteen Year Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kneff, Died This Morning.

Saturday in the bloom of health, yesterday stricken down with the dread malady of cerebro spinal meningitis, and this morning cold in death, was the tragic story of Mary Louise Kneff, the fourteen year old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kneff, 221 West Milwaukee street, who breathed her last at five o'clock a. m. today. Early yesterday morning she was taken ill. Her condition rapidly became serious and Dr. Frank Van Kirk was called to attend her, but medical treatment was unable to stay the progress of the disease, and the end came surely and swiftly.

Mary Kneff was born August 11, 1899 and had always been strong and vigorous, a playful and active child, and peculiar with her associates. At the time of her death she was in the eighth grade at the Lincoln school and was a bright and promising pupil. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances in their deep and sudden affliction. Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock Wednesday morning.

PUT UP A HARD FIGHT IN RESISTING ARREST

Robert Purdie and Harry Snyder, Bridge Workers, Locked Up After Lively Struggle.
Robert Purdie and Harry Snyder, two workmen employed in the construction of the new railway bridge were placed under arrest last night after making a desperate attempt to break away from the officers. Two officers and two citizens were required to subdue Purdie who had no memory of his actions when brought into court this morning. Both men paid fines of $4 and costs. Purdie was unable to pay a fine of $2 and costs and went to jail for five days. He claims never to have been in court before. James Clark neglected to return to the county farm yesterday as instructed by Judge Field and was sent to jail for five days. In excuse for his failure to obey instructions he said that his ankles were too sore for him to walk that distance.

THE DAILY NOVELLETTE

"Hist! a fearful noise I hear. Burglars sure I've heard. Get behind the old hall clock Or hide behind a screen."
THE BURGLAR'S GRIP.
Dark was the night and when this inverted order of saying the night was dark is used, it is safe to infer that the night was dark near black.
Noiselessly, Silas Frump, a regular burglar, Jimmy Valentined the Princeton lock on the front door of Hamfat Merangue, an irregular actor. Ha! Ha! He has found the safe.
Silas Frump was coquetting with the combination when with a muffled path—all humane burglars muffle their oaths—he started on his feet. Somebody had tapped him on the shoulder.
It was Hamfat Merangue, the actor. Silently, Merangue made the sign of the order and handed Silas Frump a card.
"Was true. The critics had unanimously voted Hamfat Merangue a robber for taking the money, and on a strength of that he had been admitted to the Alameda Order of Burglars. Without a word, Silas Frump gave him the burglar's grip and dropped silently out of the window.

MONITOR STOCKHOLDERS ARE TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Man and Woman.

Some day, when all the nonsense and sentimentality have died out of the world, it will be universally admitted that men and women are made up of the same ingredients and that the preponderance of good or bad, weakness or strength, is in the individual not the sex. When women have achieved full liberty, in other words fully found themselves, and, increasingly confident of their swelling ranks, stand squarely on their own two feet, they will be just as rapacious, just as dishonest, just as sharp and over-reaching as conditions and the law permit. The weaker or less resourceful will drop to the underworld as they do today (where they will continue to divide the honors with men), but these women of brain and character that deliberately select the open, will fight man at his own game, and, it may be, rout him; dispossess him, eat him up.—Gertrude Atherton, in Yale Review.

Made Matters Worse.

A Toronto newspaper recently printed an account of an accident which befell two well-known men who are acknowledged leaders in the present prohibition movement. The accident occurred on their way home from a temperance meeting. The newspaper in its desire to be funny, added to the news item, this closing sentence: "Fortunately both gentlemen were sober at the time." This made the victims of the accident, pretty cross, and they demanded an immediate, public apology from the newspaper. In the next issue of the paper, this item appeared: "Hon. _____ and J. B. _____, Esq., demanded an apology for our having stated that they were both sober at the time of the recent accident. We have pleasure in withdrawing our previous observation."

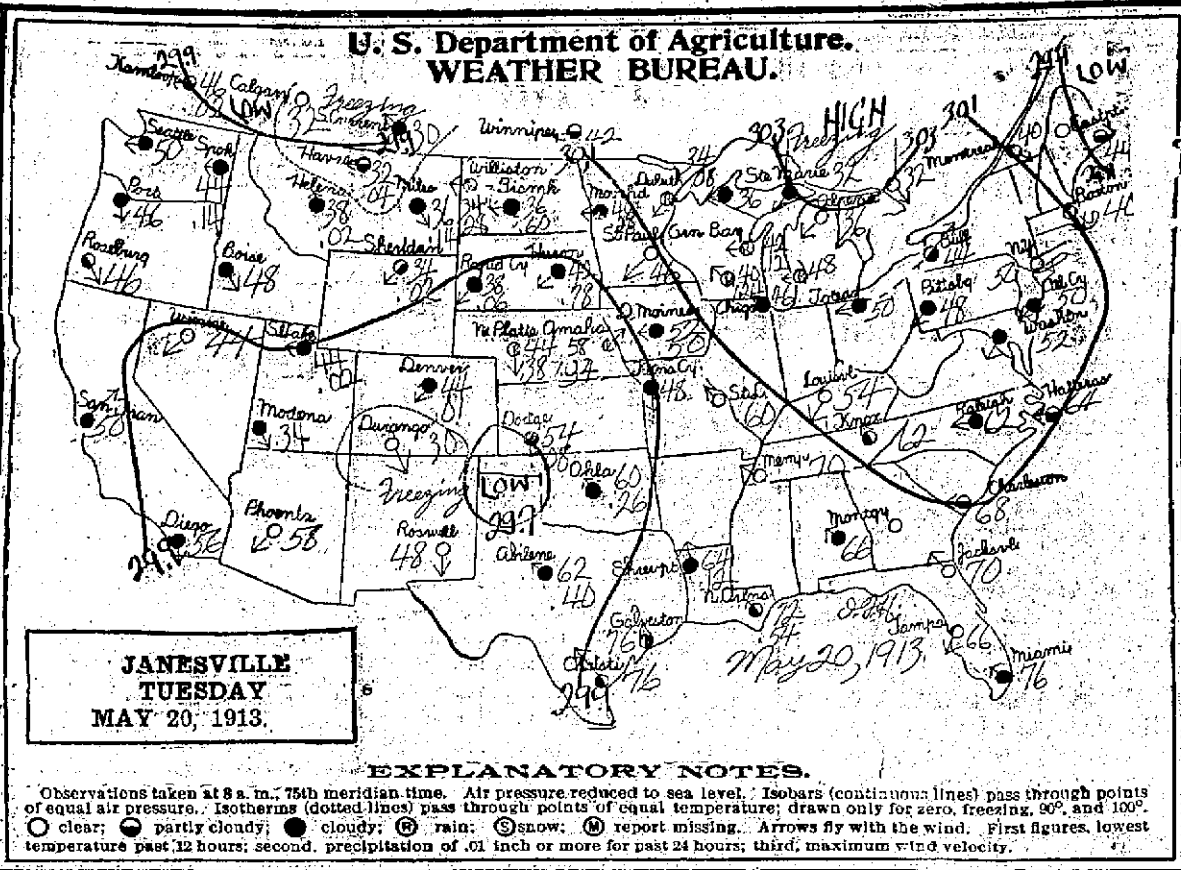

CASE OF STINGY HUSBAND

How One Head of a Family Superintended Expenditures for Household Needs.

In a lively article in the current number of Farm and Fireside, on the relations between husbands and wives on the subject of home finances, there are several interesting reports of actual cases. Following is a report of a stingy husband:
"A girl I knew in my youth was married after a short acquaintance to a scholarly professional man. He had been brought up under hard conditions in a strenuous school of poverty. She was the daughter of wealth and had never been denied a reasonable wish. Her husband was what is called a good provider. He bought amply for the table, and was not averse to having plenty of fuel and sufficient house-furnishings to keep his home comfortable and dignified. He simply declined to let Betty buy so much as five cents' worth of anything. He did not wish her to have accounts at shops, nor did she desire them. When she wanted to buy anything for herself or the children, he accompanied her, superintended her purchases, examined every pair of stockings and every yard of muslin, and frowned upon ruching and trimmings as needless, drawing out his well-filled pocket-book and paying the bill with a flourish when the shopping had been done to his satisfaction. She never had any money in her possession except when her mother sent it to her as a gift, and when this was done, she took excellent care to keep Reuben in ignorance. Once the good man, for in some ways he was good, was compelled to leave home for a few days. He carefully counted the amount that his wife would spend for the house during his absence. Then he lost his train and had to wait over another day. Coming home, he asked her for the cash, and put it back in his own pocket for the next 24 hours."

Power of Radium.

Radium emits three streams of minute particles. These all carry definite charges of electricity, which made their discovery possible. No microscope could detect them, but they became apparent under proper conditions because of the electrical charge.

The pair of disturbances in the atmosphere, an area of low barometer in the southwest, and an area of high barometer over Canada, that were causing rains yesterday in the Missouri valley, have now moved eastward sufficiently to bring the Wisconsin and the Upper Mississippi valley within the area of heaviest rainfall. 1.25 inches fell at Madison, 1.26 at Dubuque, and 1.34 at Omaha, and lesser amounts at neighboring places.

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative Tonic.

MR. O. P. MILLER

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan, and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again; when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. O. P. Miller, Baroda, Mich., who writes: "I am 80 years old and have been constituted for many years. Since receiving your sample bottle I have procured two 50c bottles and find that it is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for to the very letter. I can not recommend it too highly."

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty-cent size first, and then having convinced themselves of its merits they buy the dollar size which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed, or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results. If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

DAUGHTERS OF ARMY HORSE SHOW STUNTS AT WASHINGTON HORSE SHOW

Two of the most daring riders at the recent horse show in Washington were the Misses Jennett and Desha Allen, daughters of Major Henry T. Allen of the U. S. army. Miss Desha Allen caused spectators to catch their breath when she took what seemed a nasty cropper in the competition for post entries. Her horse, Yellowstone Regent, smashed into the fence and went down knocking the barrier over and apparently falling on its rider. Miss Allen relieved the spectators by jumping up, helping her horse to its feet and remounting.

PIONEER SUFFRAGE ADVOCATE EIGHTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Elizabeth N. J. May 20.—The Rev. Dr. Antonette Louisa Brown Blackwell, who is pastor of All Souls Unitarian church of this city, quietly observed her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary today. Mrs. Blackwell is believed to be the oldest living advocate of equal suffrage in America. She was one of the sepiars at the first woman's rights convention in Worcester, Mass., in 1849.

RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Cincinnati, O., May 20.—The national Association of Railway Mail Clerks, one of the oldest and most influential of organized labor bodies, began its annual convention in Cincinnati today. The convention will last until the end of the week. The annual reports show gratifying gains in membership and finances during the past year. A lively contest is on in the office of national secretary in succession to George A. Wood of Portsmouth, N. H., who is a candidate for re-election.

Quite So.

In reporting another motor bus accident in which a workman was the victim a daily paper says: "The wheels passed over his dinner-can and for a few minutes he was stunned." We only wonder that he was not killed outright from injuries to so vital a part.—Tattler.

ferred upon A. T. Shearer, M. B. Titus and Harlow Tall in the K. P. lodge last evening by the team from the Evansville lodge. A large number came over from Evansville by auto to attend the meeting and witness the work. A banquet was served in the lodge rooms after the meeting.

SCHEDULE OF BILLS BEFORE COMMITTEES

Semi-Monthly Wage Payment Bill Among Matters to be Considered By Senate Committee This Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 20.—Few hearings will be held by legislative committees this week. The more important hearings will be held before the senate committees. Before the week ends it is possible that the assembly may be able to hold afternoon sessions as well as morning sessions.

Among the more important bills to be given a hearing before the joint committee on finance this week are: Scott's bill to erect a new home for the feeble minded at Chippewa Falls; True's to increase the salary of the members of the state board of control; Zophy's for a legislative committee to investigate the subject of insurance against accident, sickness and invalidity; and Senator Burke's bill for the establishment of a state game farm in Northern Wisconsin.

The committee on labor bill for the semi-monthly pay of wages of employees comes up for hearing before the committee on public welfare of the senate this afternoon. The measure is opposed by the railroads and other large corporations. Assemblyman Bowe's bill providing for a board of university visitors, which is one of which may make an investigation of any subject desired, is slated for hearing tomorrow afternoon.

The senate corporation committee has announced hearings for tomorrow on the Hull bill making the owners of dams doubly liable for accidents or washouts; the Guidice bill compelling persons who desire to establish a new bank to obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the banking commissioner as to the need of a new bank in that vicinity; the Hinkel bill to allow cities of the first and second class to establish a municipal bank and the Murphy bill requiring all steam railroads to equip their trains with medical supplies.

On Thursday the senate committee on education will give a hearing on the Roessler bill to repeal the law providing for an election pamphlet, and the Vint bill prescribing a method for the recall of the members of the appointive state commissions.

Sound Education in Finland.

In the rudiments of a sound education the Finnish people are unsurpassed. Practically every man and woman in the country has a working knowledge of reading, writing, and arithmetic, and every child of school age receives careful instruction in these studies. Every adult has a vote, and although 53 per cent of the inhabitants are women there are only seven teen of their sex in the Finnish diet.

How Does it Get Across?

At a certain eastern university one of the professors was conducting an examination in physiology. He asked for a description of the circulation at the extremities, meaning of course, the capillary circulation. The youth he called upon evidently did not know much about the matter, for he replied that the blood went down one leg and up the other!—Youth's Companion.

musements

In the Winninger production of "The Man of the Hour" at Myers opera house tonight, amusement lovers will find a genuine treat. The story is vitally interesting and abounds in brilliant comedy. Arthur C. Howard, one of the best known young leading men in the middle west, will play the title role, while that of his sweetheart, alias Winwright, will be in the capable hands of Miss Louise Grassler, whose work in metropolitan stock companies has brought her to universal favor. John D. Winninger as Alderman Phelan, has a congenial comedy role, and Adolph Winninger is admirably cast as Perry Winwright. The supporting company is of unusual excellence and a complete production is assured.

LIGHTNING STRIKES AT FOOTVILLE FARM

Garage on James Murphy Farm With Contents Including Automobile Burned to Ground.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Footville, Wis., May 20.—Lightning struck the garage and machinery shed on the James Murphy farm, a quarter of a mile southwest of this village, at four o'clock this morning. The flash ran the entire length of the building and exploded the gasoline in the automobile, which started a blaze which destroyed the building. Besides the car, a corn shredder, other pieces of farm machinery and some harnesses were destroyed, bringing the loss to $1,500 or more. The flames did not spread to the other farm buildings.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

"HE WHO blackens others does not write himself."—German proverb.

The following very interesting true story has recently been going the round of business circles in a certain city.

A young clerk in the office of a very large and prosperous concern, by a clever bit of work, gained the favorable attention of the senior member of the firm. He was a fine looking young man, he had a good presence and was always perfectly groomed; moreover, he had plenty of brains, and he easily held this favorable attention, and soon became a great favorite with the senior member who was, by the way, inclined to be eccentric. From a small clerkship this fortunate young man was advanced with startling rapidity. He was given a position of high authority and his salary was trebled within the year. At the end of this time his patron was due to make his annual trip abroad, and he still further favored the young man by inviting him to go with him. This position was nominally that of a private secretary, but he was given a magnificent suite on shipboard, and in every way treated by his employer as a friend and companion.

It had been planned that he should stay the full two months, traveling all over Europe, so everyone was much surprised when he came back by the next steamer.

They were still more surprised when he was followed by a cable from the senior member ordering his discharge.

The secret of the sudden change in his fortunes leaked out into the office later. It was just this. He had taken that golden opportunity to knock his fellow workers, especially one or two of his superiors whose positions he thought he would like to hold. His employer listened without a word, which ought to have warned the young man. But he was successful, and he kept it up during the whole voyage, while in the heart of his employer who hated a back-biter above anything on earth, admiration rapidly turned to disgust.

The Dutch have a proverb which goes one step farther than the German saying quoted at the beginning. They say, "Slander flings stones at itself."

It's very true, isn't it?

Nothing arouses dislike and distrust in the heart of an honorable man any more than back-biting.

The fifteenth psalm has been aptly called "the gentleman's psalm" because it describes the qualities a gentleman should have. The "honorable business man's psalm," wouldn't be a bad name for it either, and one of the qualifications is "that he back-bite not with his tongue." Evidently King David felt the same distaste for a back-biter as this 20th century business man does.

There are times when honor and expediency give a business man different counsel. This is one of the times when they agree. Don't back-bite; it isn't honorable and it doesn't pay.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
By Mrs. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am here all alone keeping house. My brother comes to see me once in a while. The neighbors are annoying me by throwing pictures at my door which I never thought of, as I am working hard trying to get an honest living, and because he comes they think I am a funny house. But I do not never did for I will start to death first. The reason my brother comes is I am trying to persuade him to do right.

(2) Go with a fellow but I don't like him, for he imposes too much on me. He comes when I don't want him and is in my way. Can you help me to get another fellow in any way so I can get rid of him? I have gone with him for company and not to marry him, and he has never asked me to, and would be shocked, too, if he did. He stands in my way so that other fellows think I am married. I am twenty-eight years old. (3) Is it right to pay for automobile riding if anybody takes you? (4) How much is it worth to trim a hat?

RABBIT EYES. (1) Complain to the police. (2) You don't need to lead into the house. (3) You are not expected to do. (4) It depends upon how elaborate and expensive the hat is. For just a simple hat some stores charge 50 cents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl of twenty years. I am keeping company with a man of forty-five, he seems to think I am his but I am in doubt as to whether he and I am a poor girl. He says he will never marry another girl but me. He stands high socially. Do you think he will marry me? Please advise me what is best for me to do.

GOLD DUST makes pot and pan spick and span

Soap and muscle won't clean your pots and pans properly—thoroughly.

Ordinary washing of cooking utensils passes over whole hidden nests of little wigglers—commonly called germs.

Gold Dust is a sanitary washing powder that not only removes the visible dirt and grease, but digs deep after every trace of germ life—sterilizes pots, pans, pails and kettles—leaving them clean, wholesome, safe.

Shake a little Gold Dust in your dish-water and see the startling results.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FONDANT, THE FOUNDATION FOR FRENCH CANDIES.

At this season of the year, when the children are allowed unusual indulgence in sweets, it is vital that they be provided with the purest. The fondant may be combined with fruits, coloring, nuts and flavors, which will make a sufficiently alluring variety to satisfy even the younger lovers of sweets.

To prepare the fondant, use a pint of sugar and a cup of water, stir until the sugar is dissolved, and boil until a drop when tried in cold water, will make a soft, waxy ball. Do not stir during the boiling. Pour out on a buttered platter or marble slab to cool, and work with wooden spoons until creamy. Some add a spoonful of glucose to the mixture before cooling, or a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, to keep the sugar from graining.

A good candy maker keeps the sides of the kettle in which the mixture is boiling washed down with a small cloth wound on a stick dipped in water. The presence of grains in the syrup is fatal to good candy, for a few form the nucleus around which the candy will grain and spread through the entire mass.

When the fondant is made it may be kept for weeks if carefully covered with a waxed paper.

Take a small portion, mix with nuts and flavoring, mold into balls, decorate with halves of nuts or roll around pieces of preserved pineapple.

The softer the fondant is for chocolate creams the better. It is possible to have the centers almost a liquid. Prepare the fondant, boiling it to a very soft, waxy ball stage, stir, and allow it to freeze. Then bring in just a little at a time, quickly mold into balls and put out to freeze again. Dip them in melted chocolate, a few at a time, and if carefully made, they will equal the finest of professionally made creams.

Bonbons are made by preparing any desired mixture in balls of fondant, then dipping them in some of the fondant, flavored and colored, if desired. Melt the fondant for dipping in a small double boiler or a small sauce pan set in boiling water.

AN EVENING DRESS OF CREPE METEOR

Evening dress, composed of crepe meteor and fine and heavy lace. Chemise of tulle. Shadow lace drapes upper part of blouse and forms the short loose sleeves. The lower part of blouse has a deep edge, the points of which fall over the velvet girdle. The fulness of skirt is held in by a pointed shaped band of the heavy lace. Two flounces of fine lace appear below the band and the skirt is slashed in front.

Cruel Predictions Fulfilled.

The mother of Nero, when warned by soothsayers that her son would become emperor and then put her to death, would not believe it; yet both events came to pass, for after depriving her of all her honor and power, he was terrified by the menaces she made and her high spirit and commanded that she be killed.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS...

Things Worth Knowing.

To Extinguish Gasoline Flames—It has been proved that milk will effectively extinguish the flames from gasoline or any form of petroleum, since it forms an emulsion with the oil, whereas water only spreads it.

When finely varnished oak wood-work has been badly marred by chairs rubbing into it, try rubbing the place with common vasoline. In a few days you will be unable to locate the spot even by hunting for it.

When milk soup or other foods boil over on the stove, cover the spot quickly with salt. It will do away with any unpleasant odor.

The Table.

Salt-Rising Bread—Boil one third cupful of new milk, pour onto two spoonfuls of yellow cornmeal. Keep in warm place until light. When light, set your "sponge" beating well, and keep in warm place until "sponge" is light, mold into loaves. When light, put into hot oven. Bake from three quarters of an hour to one hour. From one to ten loaves can be made with this quantity of rising.

Pineapple Strips—Slice, peel and dice enough pineapple to make about three pounds. Place in a preserving kettle with a pound of sugar and a quart of water and cook until very soft. Mash and strain. Return to the kettle, and to each pint of juice allow a pound of sugar. Cook to a rich sirup and bottle while hot. Use patent stoppers or seal with wax to make air tight. This will be ready for use at any time for sauces or cooling drinks.

Cottage Cheese Salad—Mix one pint of cottage cheese with one-half cupful of chopped Boston. Walnuts, one teaspoonful of chopped chives, one teaspoonful of salt and one-half saltspoonful of paprika. Form into balls and arrange in nests of lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise dressing to which has been added some chopped olives and capers.

Coconut Pie—Line a pie plate with good pastry. Mix together two table-spoonfuls of cornstarch, half a cupful of sugar, a cupful of cream, one egg, one pint of milk, the yolks of eggs, one cupful of desiccated coconut, two table-spoonfuls of melted butter, and the grated rind and strained juice of one lemon. Pour into the prepared plate and bake in a moderate oven for thirty-five minutes.

cup and saucer, small cream and sugar and small coffee or tea pot. If a percolator is used, that is better set on a small separate tray.

The tray may be of the finest Sheffield plate, aluminum, silver plated, or a very pretty cretaceous or print tray, covered with glass and framed in beautiful mahogany or wicker with brass handles. Whatever the design or material, the tray should always be covered with a dolly. Where the saving of washing is a necessity, use the lace paper ones which can hardly be told from the real linen. Have the napkins a generous size to protect the clothing; then with the above service mentioned have salt and pepper or other seasonings when desired.

Do Not Load Tray.

If fruit is served, have it fresh, perfect and not too much of it, or a cereal with berries and a pitcher of cream, with a roll or toast, and coffee with hot milk, especially when cold fruits are eaten. Eggs in so many ways may be served if one cares for them for breakfast. A few breakfast and luncheon menus might prove suggestive for this most comfortable tray service at the homes for both old and young.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

We hear so much about training our boys for their future. The boy that comes from the average American home is given to understand early in life that every day is a link in his chain, that each day is a preparation for a better tomorrow.

He must prepare himself for his future; so that on arriving at the gate of manhood he may be able to enter in. He must have the opposition the competition and the many battles that lie ahead of him. He is, or should be, trained from his cradle up. That is both right and just. In justice to our young men let me say that they act as if they were not trained. They think that life is a play ground, that the people around them were called into existence to be the subjects of their good will and pleasure.

On a shining school they buckle right down to the task. They earn a living, of trying a little to repay their parents for the time and money that they expended in their behalf. Last, but not least, they endeavor to demonstrate to the world that at large that they can and will be successful men. Parents for years have aided by every known means in our power to prepare our sons for the time that they will leave the home nest and go into the world, where, after experience, we know they will in many ways be most sorely tried.

There are trays and trays. When one looks at them in the shops, it seems that it would be difficult to make a choice. They are of such a variety of material, shapes and sizes. I have found for general purposes that the oblong tray with handles allows better room for placing the dishes and the handles are necessary in carrying from one room to another. It should be large enough to hold plate, rolls, individual butter

Send for The Cook's Book

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill

It's FREE

Our instructions to the famous editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine were: "Get up a book of recipes of the things people like best. Find the best way to make and bake each one. Then write it out so plainly that even an inexperienced housewife can't have a failure."

"The Cook's Book" was the result. Some of the 90 recipes were originated, many of them were improved upon, and all were personally tested by this best known authority on cooking in America, and she tells so clearly how she made everything that one cannot go astray.

While some of the cakes and pastry are elaborate enough for any occasion, the recipes are all thoroughly practical and call for no expensive and unusual ingredients. In addition to telling how to make them, the book is beautifully illustrated in colors showing how to arrange and serve the dishes appetizingly.

More than half a million of "The Cook's Book" are now in use in American households. Yet the demand is constantly increasing. Many send for two or three at a time to give to friends or young housekeepers. Don't depend on borrowing one from a neighbor—have one of your own.

How to Get "The Cook's Book"

In every 25c. can of K.C. Baking Powder is packed a colored certificate. Send us one of these certificates (paste it on a postal card if you like) with your name and address plainly written, and "The Cook's Book" will be mailed free of charge. Only one book for each certificate.

The Best Treatment for Itching Scalps, Dandruff and Falling Hair

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, wash the hair with straight oil around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. And additional rinsing about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura soap and not water. Shampoo alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Cuticura soap and ointment sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free with 25¢ Skin Book. Address "Cuticura," Dept. 3, Boston. Tender-faced men shave in comfort with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25¢. Sample free.

WISCONSIN FIRST IN CHEESE PRODUCTION

Board of Public Affairs Reports That Marketing System is Not the Fairest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 20.—Wisconsin is the greatest cheese producing state in the union according to statistics gathered by the state board of public affairs. The cheese product in 1909 in Wisconsin was 40 per cent of the entire output of the United States. From 1899 to 1909 cheese production increased 87 per cent in Wisconsin, while outside of Wisconsin the production of cheese in the United States decreased 21 per cent.

Regard to Selling.
The monograph prepared by the board of public affairs relates particularly to the selling and marketing of the cheese produced in the state. The evidence gathered by the board shows that the farmers have too generally left the selling of their product to the cheesemaker, who is more interested in having the cheese pass inspection and sell at good prices than he is in having the cheese at private sale instead of on the call board. The claim is made that a "dipping system" has been indulged in by dealers in the making of sales.

Need Open Market.
The provision of an open market with uniform inspection and grading of cheese, with a view both to the maintenance of fair dealing and high quality of product, becomes a problem of statewide importance, says the report. "Whether this can best be accomplished by the federation of the common organizations or by state activity, is a question for future efforts to determine. For the present the cheese farmers of Wisconsin upon the manufacture of high grade goods under conditions which will ensure free and open competition. The first duty of the state is to learn more about the present system of marketing as a basis for the education on questions relating to the disposal of farm products."

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MASON

He's idle, unsteady, and everyone's ready to throw him a donkey or give him a lift; he's always in tatters, but little it matters; he's evermore happy, so what is the diff? He carries no sorrow, no care for tomorrow, his soul is the heaven his couch is the soil; no sighing or weeping break in on his sleeping, no bell in the morning shall call him to toil. As free as the breeze he goes where he pleases, his rule over him around; his joys do not wither, he goes you and hither, till dead in a haystack or ditch he is found. The joys of such freedom—no sane man can read 'em! Far better to toil for the kids and the wife, till muscles are aching and collarbone breaking, then selfishly follow the vagabond life. One laborer toiling is worth the whole of the idlers and tramps of whatever degree; and though we all know it we don't find a poet embracing the fact it should be. The poets will chortle about the blithe mortal who wanders the highways and alleys in the day, but who sings the toiler the sweat spangled moiler who raises ten kils on a dollar a day?

JOHNSTOWN

GROWERS OF COTTON FEAR PINK BOLL WORM

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 20.—A quarantine against cotton-seed importations from Egypt and India may be established as a result of a conference held at the department of agriculture today on the subject of the threatened invasion of the pink boll worm. This dangerous enemy of cotton is now widely distributed in Egypt and India and it is feared that the pest might be introduced into the United States. The danger is not regarded as very great, however, as the importations of cotton-seed from the countries named are very small.

Carolina's Independence Day

Charlotte, N. C., May 20.—The customary holiday was observed throughout North Carolina today in celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence. A document said to have been promulgated here on May 20, 1775, nearly a year in advance of the declaration made by the representatives of the thirteen colonies at Philadelphia.

MUST CONTAIN FULL POSTAGE; NEW ORDER

Postmaster General Cautions Against Short Paid Letters—Sends Out Circular.

In the official Postal Guide, received by Postmaster Charles Valentine, Postmaster General A. S. Burleson calls attention to short paid letters for foreign countries. According to Mr. Burleson many letters mailed in the United States addressed for delivery in France and other foreign countries subject to the postal union postage rates, are prepaid only two cents, the sender being under the impression that the two cent domestic postage rate is applicable to these letters. The only foreign destinations to which the two cent letter rate applies are Canada, Cuba, Mexico, the republic of Panama, Newfoundland, the canal zone, Germany (by direct steamers only), England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland and Shanghai, China. To all other places the rate is five cents for the first ounce or fraction of an ounce and three cents for each additional ounce or fraction thereof, which must be fully prepaid or the letters become liable on delivery to a charge equal to double the amount of the deficient postage. In instance a single letter prepaid only two cents would be short-paid three cents and consequently subject on delivery to an additional postage charge of six cents. As charges for postage due on short-paid letters are also to much complaint Mr. Burleson directs postmasters to caution patrons of their offices.

WILL TAKE PART IN THE U. C. T. PARADE

Twenty Five Thousand Club Will Have Delegation in Line of March on Big Day of Convention.
E. R. Winslow, H. W. McNamara, and Joseph Denning, the committee named by the directors of the temporary organization of the Twenty Five Thousand club, to take charge of the plan to have the club represented in the big parade of the U. C. T. at the time of their convention here next month, announce that they have ordered seventy "Booster Dusters and Caps" and that more can be secured if needed. Every member of the club who will march in the parade is urged to hand their names to one of the members of the committee as soon as possible. The outfit will cost one dollar and a half and will be neat and useful. The same outfit can also be utilized in future parades which the club will doubtless be called upon to take part in and the members taking part will be organized and drilled as the Boosters' Marching Club. Those who will join this marching delegation should notify one of the committee, H. W. McNamara, E. R. Winslow, or Joseph Denning at once.

WINNING PLAYERS IN FINE REPERTORY

Open Weeks Engagement at Myers Theatre Last Evening Presenting "The Barrier."
Friends of the winning players, and those who have many a time will be especially interested in the exceptional repertory with which the company comes to the Myers theatre for a week's engagement. Their first production, "The Barrier," a dramatic adaptation of Rex Beach's novel of the same name, was given last evening and pleased a good sized audience. In addition to a thrilling story of love and adventure it had several very interesting characters which were well presented by the members of the winning company. Miss Louise Grassier as Nech, was altogether charming and delightful presenting her role in an unaffected manner which at once won the sympathy and approval of the audience. Arthur Howard as Capt. Burrell, is a capable actor and other members of the cast were of the same high quality. John and Adolph Winniger appeared in prominent and difficult parts and displayed their unusual artistic talent. George Broadhurst's drama, "The Man of the Hour" will be offering this evening and promises to be one of the finest attractions of the week. On Wednesday night the play will be "Sapho" and on Thursday the farce-comedy, "Billy."

NEBRASKA GRAND ARMY BEGINS ENCAMPMENT

Mrs. Percy L. Pennington of Texas, president of the General Federation, is here as the guest of the convention. The proceedings will continue through the greater part of the week.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

COLUMBUS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THIS is the 497 anniversary of the untimely death of Christopher Columbus, who discovered America when there was nothing worth discovering here except the unthought red man and the lythe form of the cholera morbus. Columbus couldn't have chosen a poorer time to discover this country. Nobody knows why he didn't wait until somebody had opened a hotel or a saloon, where he could be received with pomp and tendered a sitting vote of thanks, but when Columbus made up his mind to discover anything he went right out and hung the Spanish flag on it. If it had not been for Queen Isabella of Spain, who pawned several of her wedding presents in order to buy ships for Columbus, America would never have been discovered up to the present writing and the people of foreign lands would still believe the earth is constructed on the order of a graphophone record. The American invasion would also have been postponed for several years with great unanimity. As not many people cared at that time whether America was discovered or not, Columbus had to hire a lot of sailors who were not enthusiastic about getting anywhere in particular and who whined a number of times in a fervent and unbiased manner, making it necessary for Columbus to bury a few of the ringleaders in order to promote harmony. The shotgun with which Columbus pacified the mutineers is now on exhibition in several Spanish museums, and can be seen by tourists who have the price of admission. Columbus made several trips after striking this continent, but did not succeed in discovering anything that afterward got into the geographies. King Ferdinand did not like Columbus because he had never redeemed Isabella's jewelry, and one time when Columbus was chasing around South America looking for the tree of life and running up a big hotel bill Ferdinand had him imprisoned in one of the Spanish militia and sent home. This broke the proud spirit of Columbus, and made him an easy prey to the Spanish govt, which foreclosed on him in 1506. Thus died one of the best discoverers that ever came to this country, but one of the poorest discoverers outside of the treasury department.

Funeral Directors Meet

Davenport, Ia., May 20.—The Iowa Funeral Directors' association began its first annual meeting here this city today. This afternoon President C. H. Gregoire of Dubuque, delivered his annual address.

SHOWERS COMING TO UPPER LAKE REGION

During the early days of the week the weather will be generally fair over the eastern portion of the country. Low pressure prevails westward and northward of the Rocky mountains over the north Pacific ocean and Alaska and the eastward drifts of this depression will cause a continuance of the showers in the Pacific states and the plateau region for a day or two and their extension early in the week into the plains states and the Missouri valley. By the middle of the week the showers should extend through the great central valleys and the upper lake region and during Thursday or Friday into the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic states and New England. After the middle of the week generally fair weather should prevail west of the Mississippi river for a few days with higher pressure but by the end of the week another disturbance will probably appear over the Canadian northwest. In the south Atlantic and east gulf states occasional local thunder storms will continue while in the west gulf states local showers likely during the first half of the week. Temperatures will be moderately low early in the week over the middle and northern sections and higher later in the week but not unusually so. In the south they will be about normal.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By
HARRY KING TOOTLE

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

"Joe Wright, of all persons!" exclaimed Gloria, shaking his hands heartily, her face radiant with smiles. "Miss Kerr! You here!" It was all he could say, but he put into it a wealth of feeling which made it impossible to mistake his meaning. He forgot David Kerr, he forgot every one but this girl whom now he met again after so long a time.

"You're the last person I'd expect to find in Belmont," he replied. "But you're not the last person I'd hope to find here," he replied.

Whereupon they both laughed and shook hands again. Mrs. Gilbert was the first of the others to recover the power of speech. "You know each other!"

"Indeed we do," replied Gloria. "We traveled abroad for a time in the same party. How do you happen to be here?" asked Wright. "Tell me all about it."

"There isn't much to tell," I live here now. "How funny!"

"I'm not apologizing for it," he laughed. "I don't mean it that way. Belmont is my home, too. I was born here."

"Here! In Belmont!" He made no effort to conceal his surprise. "Yes," she said proudly. "I am the daughter of David Kerr."

Had she struck him a blow fall in the face she could not more have staggered him. In the joy of meeting her, Wright had forgotten everything but the pleasure of seeing her again and the memories her presence conjured up of what he called their mad old, glad old Paris days when they had been so much together. He had forgotten the sordid present with the fight to make friends for his kind of newspaper, the effort to meet the pay roll, and the continuous struggle against what he knew to be the evil influences of David Kerr. David Kerr, her father! With Gloria's explanation, raised by her pride in her father almost to a boast, all this was brought back to him. He still smiled, but his heart went dead within him. The sun which had shone for him so gloriously only a minute ago was now hidden behind the blackest cloud in the heavens.

Selfish as they wished to be, for a time they were forced to join in the general conversation and satisfy the curiosity of the others concerning previous acquaintanceship.

"When did you and Gloria meet?" Kerr asked the newspaper man. "First on a steamer going to Europe."

"And then accidentally any number of times on the continent," added Gloria.

"There's no need now of your fearing you will be lonesome, Miss Gloria," was Mrs. Gilbert's comment. "How lucky to find an old friend."

"Yes, indeed," replied Gloria, with such spirit that no one could believe she was merely saying the polite thing. "I command you to come to see me at once, Mr. Wright. I know hardly a soul in Belmont. You see I just came home this morning."

Thus within a quarter of an hour after meeting the boss of Belmont, Wright found himself invited to his home. The circumstances that had brought about the invitation he would have considered out of the range of all reason half an hour before. He knew the game too well not to understand how the easy boss works and all unconsciously Gloria was seeking to further her father's plans.

Through friendship, loyalty and a sense of obligation which one is not permitted to forget, the political lender obtains active co-operation where to deny him would appear base ingratitude. To keep from being placed in such a position was Wright's one aim. Consequently, to Gloria's invitation he merely murmured a polite assent, inwardly resolving to find sufficient excuses to make it impossible for him to be a visitor at Locust Lawn. Yet something within him at the same time was telling him that he must see Gloria often.

As they were now leaving, Dr. and Mrs. Hayes came to say good night to Gloria. Gilbert and Kerr found this the favorable moment to slip out of the library unobserved.

"I've told Mrs. Gilbert how sorry we are we have to be going, because I so wanted to have a little chat with you," began Mrs. Hayes. "I'll give you only a day or two to unpack before I come to call."

"Please don't wait for that to happen," urged Gloria. "I've lived in trunks so long that I'd feel like a motor without gasoline if I should take all my things out and hang them on hooks like civilized people do."

"I wonder if you could be interested in some settlement work I'm doing," continued Mrs. Hayes.

"Don't let her rope you into that, Miss Kerr," protested the doctor. "Isn't it fashionable?" inquired Gloria cautiously.

"Not fashionable and highly insatiable," was his verdict. "A germ is no respecter of persons. My wife's liable to bring home anything from measles to socialism."

"But think of the poor, unfortunate, ignorant people," pleaded Mrs. Gilbert, who with Mrs. Hayes was interested in a mission established in a poor quarter of the town by the Presbyterian church.

"That's what I tell him," said Mrs. Hayes. "It isn't our fault, is it?" asked Gloria. To her, settlement work was a sealed book. Slatternly women with troops of dirty, sniveling brats repelled her. Were she ever to develop any philanthropy along these lines, she was sure that the work would be carried on vicariously.

"Of course it isn't our fault," added Dr. Hayes emphatically. "I still say, Rose," turning to his wife, "that I have no sympathy for people who use the bath tub for a coal bin."

"I'll tell you about it some other time," said Mrs. Hayes to Gloria, not despairing of making her a worker. "I'm afraid you'll find me hard to convert."

"Then I'll appeal to Mr. Wright to help me."

"I have no influence with her," laughed Wright. "Not since you ran away from us in Paris," pouted Gloria.

Dr. Hayes and his wife left the library conveyed by Mrs. Gilbert. For the first time that evening Gloria and Wright found no one to interrupt their conversation.

He was standing in front of the grate, his admiration for the girl shining honestly forth from his eyes as he watched her say the last good-byes. When the others had gone, she turned to Wright with a smile. Walking across the room to him she held out her hand, and said simply:

"You don't know how glad I am to find you here."

"Are you?" he replied, retaining her hand while he spoke. "Since that's the case I wouldn't care to be anywhere else in the world."

Then they sat down to talk of other days.

CHAPTER V.

There was so much to be said that Wright and the girl were at a loss to know where to begin now that they had an opportunity to talk without interruption. With Gloria there was an undercurrent of unrest caused by the fact that she feared he had carelessly broken the promise made on the Rhine to meet her again in Paris. She had waited and he had not come.

Wright was no less interested in what they were about to say. In the first place, after a long absence, he was again with the girl whom he had made it a point to meet at various places in Europe. To add confusion to their friendship, which he had highly prized, had just come the astounding revelation that she was David Kerr's daughter. How could he be a friend of the daughter and an enemy of the father? Then, too, what did she know of her father's methods, and of his own attitude toward the boss of Belmont? And if she knew, what did she think? These things made conversation rather an exhausting mental exercise.

"Well," Gloria smiled, inviting him to begin the story of all that had happened since they had shaken hands and parted, he to go to London and she back to Paris where she was to see him later but where disappointment awaited her.

"Well," he answered. He wanted her to begin, and thus give him the cue to her line of thought.

"This isn't much like Paris," "You're here."

"Yes," she laughed, "and you're here, too. That's why it isn't like Paris when I saw it last."

at any rate, we're both here. "He was anxious to have her interpret the present.

"For me it is the first time in twelve years."

This came as a glad surprise to Wright. Then she cannot know much, he thought. Her remark emboldened him to say:

"Didn't you tell me your father was a real estate operator?"

"Yes. Didn't you know that?" "I had almost forgotten. You see, I am practically a stranger here. You and I are alike in that respect, if you have not been here for a dozen years."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that," she replied quickly. "My father knows everybody and everybody knows father. I shall know every one in a week."

"Yes, that's true," he said cautiously. "How long have you been in Belmont?" asked Gloria, seeking to satisfy her own curiosity now that she had told him something about herself.

"Only a month or so." "I think it's the queerest thing in the world that we should meet here of all places. What are you doing here?"

And then Wright lied. He did not have time to consider what might be the ethics of the lie. He listened to his heart, which may have made him a traitor to himself, and answered promptly:

"I've been doing some magazine writing and an occasional bit of newspaper and similar work."

Had he been asked he could not have explained why he had not replied just as promptly that he was the owner of the Belmont News. What the real reason was he could not even explain to himself. Earlier in the evening he had talked glibly of a newspaper and its duty, and here an hour later he was denying his own under the fire of a pair of laughing eyes.

Gloria, whose ideas of business were as vague as her notions of politics or esoteric Buddhism, accepted his explanation as adequate; especially since she recalled that when in Europe he had been writing some magazine articles about the tariff. Since she never thought about the matter at all she never thought it strange that Belmont should be the place for such labors.

"Have you ever been to Locust Lawn?" was her next question.

"I have that pleasure in store for me."

This pleased her. Even before he came there were many little things she could do to make the house appear to better advantage. Although he had not yet made explanation of his failure to come to Paris, she found herself anxious to have him once more on the old footing of intimate friendship.

"Are you the same as in the mad old, glad old Paris days?" he asked. She parried the question with another.

"Are you?" "In some respects—only more so."

"That's a riddle. I hate riddles." As he made no reply to this, she went on after the pause of which he had not taken advantage. "I hope we meet accidentally as often as you met our party abroad."

Rule for Candles.

An old rule calls for as many candles on the table as there are guests about it, and it is a rule that might be followed with interesting results. There is so much variety shown nowadays in the way in which candles are placed on a table that the candles could be put one in front of each guest, in a circle or oval or oblong about the floral centerpiece.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Severe Case of a Philadelphia Woman—Her Symptoms.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness."

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicines the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysterical spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have begun to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. HORNBERGER, R. No. 3, Ephrata, Pa.

DINNER STORIES

He was an artist, and the hum-drum life in the butcher's shop vexed his noble spirit. Somehow, selling scrag of mutton and the best end of the neck was not appreciated by his artistic temperament, and so he went to New York, where talent is recognized and paid for—sometimes.

For a time he wrote glowing letters home, describing his progress and success. Then there came silence.

"Success," reflected his sorrowing parents, "has been too much for him. He has forgotten us. Alas, alas!" But he hadn't, for one evening just as his father was sitting down to supper and preparing to enjoy his humble chop, a small boy brought a note.

"Dear Dad," it read, "please meet me by the old bridge at midnight, and bring with you a shirt, a waistcoat and a jacket. I have a hat—John."

On the train out Medford way, Subbubs got into conversation with a stranger, who remarked:

"If see you are putting up a good many new buildings."

"Yes," answered Subbubs, "new building are the only kind we put up."

A man having buried his wife, a woman of unusual size, a neighbor a few days afterwards attempted a little in the consolation line by remarking:

"Well, Mr. —, you have met with a heavy loss."

"Yes," replied the mourner, "she weighed close upon four hundred pounds."

Superstitions That Survive.

The death of the Roman Emperor Maximus was presaged by the howling of dogs. It was in the hope of finding the stream of perpetual youth that led Ponce de Leon, the Spanish discoverer, on his trips through Florida, while De Soto was seeking for a city of gold. In Brazil the people believe that Don Sebastian, the royal hero who was slain in Africa about 1580 in a battle, will return to claim the crown. The people go out on windy nights to watch the heavens anticipating his return.

Stop That Cough In A Minute.

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balm does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by perspiration from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balm is made by Mr. Flenig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.
